

The Fonts of CorelDraw 12

Compared with the Fonts of CorelDraw 9 and 11

In this large document, we list all PostScript and all TrueType fonts of CorelDraw 12 (published in 2004) and compare these with the fonts of the older program versions CorelDraw 9 and CorelDraw 11.

Presently, the following CorelDraw font collection documents are downloadable from my website:

1. Corelv4.pdf	Corel Ventura 4.2, 1993	614 PS Fonts + 613 TT Fonts
2. Corel5.pdf	CorelDraw 5, ca. 1994	849 TT Fonts
3. Corel9.pdf	CorelDraw 9, ca. 1999	1259 PS Fonts + 1344 TT Fonts (largest font collection ever)
4. Corel11.pdf	CorelDraw 11, ca. 2002	1196 TT Fonts
5. Corel911.pdf	CorelDraw 9 + 11	Comparison of both collections
6. Corel12.pdf	CorelDraw 12, ca. 2004	1050 PS Fonts + 1196 TT Fonts

1.1. Western Europe PostScript Fonts (862 PS Fonts)

Note: CorelDraw 12 comprises 862 Western Europe PS fonts, whereas CorelDraw 9 comprises 1070 Western Europe fonts. The font collections of CorelDraw 9 and 12 overlap as follows:

a) CorelDraw 12 has 31 additional PS fonts which are not contained in CorelDraw 9, namely these (see the font list below).

Note: Some of these fonts are renamed font filenames, e.g. Ichtrn.pdf = now "ITC Charter", formerly "Bitstream Charter"):

b) CorelDraw 9 has 239 additional PS fonts which are not contained in CorelDraw 12, namely these (see file corel9.pdf).

Note: The 239 removed fonts are non-Bitstream fonts by URW, Letraset and – very strange – by Corel Corporation itself.

4. History of Bitstream Fonts

In 1981, Matthew Carter and other forgers, having been employees at Linotype and having quit this outfit, started Bitstream, the first digital font forging company in the world, which forged the fonts of Linotype and of other font outfits by the "Linotype Method" (see the report "The Funny Font Forging Industry"). For example, Matthew Carter grabbed the Linotype font "Helvetica" and renamed it to "Swiss 721", grabbed the Linotype font "Frutiger" and renamed it to "Humanist 777" etc., and thereafter he erased the Linotype copyright notices and replaced them by Bitstream copyright notices.

The Corel outfit, founded in 1985 by Michael Cowpland ("Corel" is the acronym of COWpland REsearch Laboratory), acquired the sales rights to these font forgeries produced by Bitstream.

More than 20 years later, in 2003, Linotype and Bitstream concluded a font forging agreement, wherein font forger Bruno Steinert declared as "versions" what he usually calls "nefarious evil knock-off clones". The press release on this font forging agreement runs as follows:

BAD HOMBURG, GERMANY and CAMBRIDGE, MA, USA — July 18, 2003 — Bitstream Inc. and Linotype Library GmbH announced today that Linotype has officially approved the Bitstream versions of many Linotype typefaces, including such well-known standards as Linotype's Frutiger, Helvetica, Times, and Univers, among others. ... "Linotype's endorsement of Bitstream's versions of their designs opens a new era of cooperation between Bitstream and Linotype," stated Anna Chagnon, President of Bitstream. ... "Linotype, known worldwide as the 'Source of Originals,' will always provide and guarantee to sales partners and customers the 'what-you-see-is-what-you-get' principle. Last but not least, correct font licensing is one of our highest demands and company values. Our latest cooperation with Bitstream will emphasize our strategy and encourage others to follow our example," says Bruno Steinert, Managing Director of Linotype Library GmbH.

More details on the "Linotype Method" and on the font forger Bruno Steinert are found in the report for legal authorities: "The Funny Font Forging Industry" (<http://www.sanskritweb.net/forgers/forgers.pdf>)
